Labor May Carry Auto Code Fight Into the Courts

A. F. of L. Objects to Reservations Against Unionization of Workers

CODE IS EFFECTIVE

President Roosevelt Puts Disputed Pact Into Force at Detroit

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Labor provisions in the automobile competitive code, just promulgated by President Roosevelt, bid fair to be tested in the courts.

Unwilling to be quoted, an official of the inner councils of organized labor said Monday that the position of the American Federation of Labor, remained unchanged.

The A. F. of L. contends that certain stipulations on the relations between employees and employers have not been left in the code, and he intimated if the same wording is inserted in all codes court action will be begun.

Auto Code Approved

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Administration approval brought the great automobile manufacturing industry Sunday night under a code of fair practice which asserts the right of employers to hire and discharge their workers without regard to union affiliations. President Roosevelt signed the code Sunday.

In permitting the labor language proposed by the manufacturers to remain in the agreement, however, Gen. Hugh Johnson, National Recovery administrator, made it clear to newspaper men that "if there is any thought that statement (the labor clause) takes away any right conferred by the law to either side, that doubt should be dispelled immediately."

The administration statement accompanying the code made no comment on the report of the Labor Advisory Board that its approval was based on the understanding the labor clause neither modifies or qualifies the recovery act, and that it does not establish a precedent in the preparation of any other code.

Bearing out the Labor Board's suggestions, General Johnson said he will not consider the automobile language a precedent when he told newspapermen:

"Every single industry that comes here must stand on its own economic feet. I'll treat each one of these situations as they arise."

Johnson Defends Course

Nevertheless, the question confronted the administrator whether every industry attempting to prevent unionization of its plants would not insist upon having the language of the automobile agreement placed in its own code as a means of resisting organization. To this Johnson said: "You have that all wrong. That was not the motive at all. They wanted that statement to come back at some highly misleading declaration from the opposite side."

The claim was being made over and over again that nobody could get a job in an automobile plant or in fact get any of the benefits of the NRA without belonging to the union.

"Now that is not true and there is nothing in the law like that. As a case in point, take the labor benefits given by the NRA in the cotton industry, which is not at all unionized."

Lists of Dole Are Reduced by Third

Government Relief in Arkansas Cut to Only 50,000 Families

CHICAGO — (AP) — One-third of the names on last March's unemployment relief rolls have been erased, a nationwide survey indicated Sunday.

Approximately 1,500,000 families have been removed from state and federal charity lists, due mainly to the mounting tide of employment, reports from every section of the country showed.

And while nearly 3,000,000 families still were accepting aid last month, the number had been lessening monthly as men went back to work and summer weather made subsistence easier.

Closely calculated reports from 34 states showed that 1,223,000 families have placed themselves on self-supporting bases since March, the month of greatest general unemployment.

Arkansas reduced its number of dependent families from 157,000 in March to 50,000 this month. Virginia from 500,000 persons to 100,000 although expecting that last week's storm would increase its burden markedly, and North Carolina 25 per cent of its population in March to only 10 per cent dependent in July.

Consumer Pledge Drive Under NRA Begins for Nation

Door-to-Door Canvass This Week for Householders

BUSINESS 70-80 PCT.

Johnson Reports Good Start—Legal Difficulties Unlikely

WASHINGTON — (AP) — National Recovery Administration volunteers, 1½ millions strong, opened their campaign Monday under Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's mandate.

"We cannot afford to fail," said Johnson. "This campaign is to implant the Blue Eagle in every business house and in millions of homes."

To Offer Credit

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (AP) — President Roosevelt late Monday directed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to establish a medium for quick and temporary credit to members of the NRA to span the time over the period between increased overhead and later returns.

As the corps speeded on its door-to-door canvass, Johnson told the workers that "either through codes or agreements we enter this drive with between 70 and 80 per cent of employers in trade and industry already under the Blue Eagle."

"Buy Under the Blue Eagle" was the watchword set for the volunteers.

No Legal Blockade

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — (AP) — Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general of Michigan, told delegates to the annual meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General Monday that no court in the United States will dare set aside President Roosevelt's recovery program.

He declared that while the National Recovery Act "offends against all cherished constitutional maxims relating to due process of law and the taking of private property for public use without just compensation," no court will be allowed to stand in the path of progress toward a more just and equitable social system.

Joseph Huckins, 63, Hotelman, Is Dead

Member of Famous Hotel Family Succumbs in New Hampshire

LITTLE ROCK — Joseph Huckins, Jr., 63, recognized as one of the leading hotel men in the country and financially interested in the Marion and LaFayette hotels here, died Sunday at his summer home in Effingham Falls, N. H.

He was the eldest of three Hucks brothers who, with a sister, composed the Huckins Hotel Company, stockholders in Southwest Hotels Inc. Southwest Hotels owns the Marion, the LaFayette, the Majestic at Hot Springs and the William Len at Memphis.

Mr. Huckins, who died of a heart attack, had not been actively interested in hotel work for about five years. His winter home was at Oklahoma City, and funeral services will be held there.

His father was a well known hotel man, at one time interested in the Parker House at Boston and the Palmer House, Chicago.

The Huckins brothers built their first hotel, the old Huckins hotel, in Texarkana in 1880.

Kidnaper Is Guarded

Authorities took no chances when Harvey Bailey, escaped convict accused in the Urschel kidnaping, was taken from Dallas, Texas, to Fort Worth for a habeas corpus hearing. Bailey, manacled, is shown in the center chained to one of his guards while another carried a riot gun.

Food Prices 6 Pct. Above Year Ago

Flour Shows Big Advance — But Others Increase Moderately

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Labor Department report Sunday showed the upward trend of retail food prices, pronounced in May and June, continued in August, but at a slower pace.

In contrast to a rise of more than 8 per cent between June 15 and July 15, the August increase, based on reports from retail food dealers in 51 cities, was less than 2 per cent and left the general level at approximately that of February, 1932.

August retail prices were 18 per cent above those of April, the low month of the year and 5.8 per cent higher than the level of August, 1932.

Of the 42 commodities covered by the Bureau of Labor statistics, 37 showed price increases between July 15 and August 15 with the flour prices, up 20 per cent, leading the higher trend. The majority of the food items rose less than 4 per cent. Pork chops increased by 8 per cent, bread was up 6 per cent, dried apples 5 per cent and macaroni 4 per cent.

Eight items dropped in price and two—cheese and coffee—were unchanged. Butter, contrary to its normal upward movement at this time of year, dropped 12 per cent and the Labor Department estimated the food index for the month would have been considerably higher had butter prices risen as usual.

Repeal Carries in Texas by 100,000

Morris Sheppard Loses Battle to Check Tide in 23rd State

DALLAS, Texas — (AP) — Senator Morris Sheppard's hope of making Texas the first of 13 states to block repeal of the Eighteenth amendment was buried Sunday night under a majority of more than 110,000 votes reported from Saturday's prohibition referendum.

With votes from 239 of the state's 254 counties, 35 of them complete, anti-prohibitionists held a lead of 273,580 to 162,078 upon the proposal to list Texas as the twenty-third state to ratify repeal of the amendment from the constitution.

In the same tabulation the Texas Election Bureau reported 277,440 votes for the proposal to legalize 3.2 per cent beer through an amendment to the state constitution, with 152,840 against.

Texas also approved a $20,000,000 bond issue for relief purposes to meet a warning by the Federal Relief Administration that it must provide additional state aid before it can obtain federal assistance.

Moley Quits, But Denies Magazine Job "Saves Face"

Vincent Astor Denies He Is Covering Up Administration Fight

MOLE AN EDITOR

Head of "Brain Trust" Leaves Roosevelt for Magazine Post

NEW YORK — (AP) — On their own initiative, Vincent Astor and Raymond Moley emphatically denied Monday any "face saving" in connection with their forthcoming journalistic adventure.

They denied it, each in turn, before a large assembly of reporters in Astor's downtown office.

"From reading the morning papers," said Astor, "one might be led to believe that Moley really resigned as assistant secretary of state as the result of a disagreement in the State Department following the London trade conference."

"That isn't true," Moley reiterated Astor's statement. Speaking of his new job as editor of Astor's proposed national publication, Moley said he "would ten times rather do this than hold public office."

The new publication will be a journal of editorial and other opinion, will be of tabloid size, illustrated, and will sell at 5 cents a copy.

"Brain Trust" Head Quits

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (AP) — Raymond Moley, intimate adviser to President Roosevelt for the last two years, resigned Sunday as assistant secretary of state, effective September 7. He will edit a new national weekly to be published by Vincent Astor.

Accepted by the president in an exchange of letters pronouncing the continued friendship of the two, the resignation is the first break in the official family of the president. It was preceded by an under-surface split in the State Department between Moley and Secretary Hull.

Astor, a close personal friend of the president, and Moley, guests Sunday at the Roosevelt home. After the London Economic Conference, at which the differences between Hull and Moley reached the breaking point, Moley was asked by the president to make a special study of kidnaping which took him away from his State Department duties.

Throughout the Roosevelt campaign for the presidency, Moley was at his side constantly. The Columbia University professor was regarded as the key man of the group with which Mr. Roosevelt contended in forming policies. When Mr. Roosevelt went to the White House last fall to discuss war debts with President Hoover, Moley was the only man with him.

Victory for Hull

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A victory for Secretary Cordell Hull which may strengthen his hand in the conduct of America's foreign policies was seen by associates in the sudden resignation of Raymond Moley as assistant secretary of state.

Mr. Hull learned of the development through telephone call to the remote section of the Virginia hills where he has been fishing for two weeks, but made no immediate comment.

There was considerable southern selling or herding, also some offerings through houses with foreign connections, and the market worked off to 9.71 for December and 10.16 for May after the call, or about 14 to 18 points net lower.

Offerings then tapered off and the market steadied up on a moderate demand with prices showing rallies of four or five points from the lowest at the end of the last half hour.

City Attorney W. S. Atkins corrected an error in The Star's narrative story Saturday with the following letter Monday:

Editor The Star: In your report, in Saturday's issue of your paper, of the meeting of the city council, at which a swimming pool for Hope was discussed, you are in error in quoting me as saying, 'Legally the council has no more standing in the eyes of the Public Works Administration than any other civic body, such as the Rotary or Kiwanis Club.'

"The question of the standing of the council or civic clubs with the Public Works Administration was not discussed. The question was asked, just what steps should be taken by the council. In other words, whether the city council should organize a benevolent corporation. In answer to this I stated that the law provides that any number of citizens, not less than three, could organize a benevolent corporation, and that there were no requirements with respect to officials organizing such corporation."

"The city council has a better standing with the Public Works Administration than any civic club or individual has; because the city acting through the council, can borrow money for any project that is approved by the administration, the payment for which the city is willing to bind itself. Civic clubs such as the Rotary and Kiwanis, or individuals, cannot do this.—W. S. Atkins."

Texarkanian Kills Self With Pistol

J. E. Clarkson, 38, of Mid-South Co-Op, Commits Suicide

TEARKANA — (AP) — J. E. Clarkson, 38, shot himself to death shortly before noon Sunday at his home, 914 Hickory street. Despondency over ill-health was advanced as the motive.

Clarkson was found with a gaping hole in his right temple and a smoking pistol on the bed beside him by his wife who rushed into the bedroom from the kitchen on hearing the report of the pistol.

Physicians were summoned but they were powerless to stay death. He lived for about 40 minutes after the pistol was fired, but failed to regain consciousness. His pulse was strong to the last. The bullet ranged upward.

Clarkson had suffered from a weak heart for nearly 15 years. Since November his condition had grown steadily worse. For the past week he had been confined to his bed. He also was a victim of chronic nervousness.

Clarkson was branch manager here for the Mid-South Cotton Association. The office is scheduled to open its seasonal activities next Friday. Possibility that he might not be able to do his work because of his illness was thought to have made him despondent.

Then an operating board is to be chosen, of three, five, or eight persons, and this board would be the executive group actually in charge of the natatorium.

The nucleus of the organization meeting will include city officials and the 21 persons who represented seven civic organizations at the beginning of the natatorium negotiations August 14. And anyone else who wants to, may attend and become a charter member.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Excluded on Navy Work for Peace Program... Kingfish Gets Another Spanning From Administration... West Virginia Told to Produce Relief Funds... TVA Asks Job Applicants Some Personal Questions.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NRA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The pacifists feel they have a "big navy" president in Roosevelt; but they try to take the fact philosophically.

Expert lobbyists, they had helped keep Congress from bringing the Navy up to treaty strength. Then Roosevelt, who had been an assistant secretary of the Navy, came along and decided to do just that.

He took $200,000,000 from the public works fund for the Navy and the peace societies could only groan. The recovery act gave the president that power.

Pacifists then lobbied against public works grants for the Army, with more success.

They are all busily engaged in promoting success for the Geneva disarmament conference, which reconvenes in October. They are urging Roosevelt to present a strong new program.

Pacifist Objectives

Also, according to Miss Dorothy Det-zer of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, they seek:
Proof from Secretary of the Navy Swanson of his statement that 85 per cent of naval building expense goes to labor.

Repeal of the Japanese Exclusion Act.

Immediate withdrawal of the Atlantic Fleet from the Pacific, leaving only the Pacific Fleet there.

Withdrawal of marines from China.

Happy Days

Dame Rachel Croody, for 12 years head of the League of Nations social service section, was a recent White House guest. She had arrived in America from England about the time of the bank holiday and spent most of the intervening time in Canada.

"What's happened?" she demanded.
"Everyone seemed miserable and depressed. Now you're all cheerful.
Surely you can't be all straightened out and prosperous again in so short a time?"

Huey Spanked Again

Huey Long has taken another spanking from the administration. This one hurt especially because the honors went to Senate Leader Joe Robinson of Arkansas, whom Huey dislikes.

Rice is grown in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, but mostly in Louisiana. Long was insisting on one of his New Orleans pals as chief of the rice section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. But the man chosen was Charles G. Miller, Joe's brother-in-law.

TVA's Curiosity

The Tennessee Valley Authority declines that it asks applicants for jobs to sign the pledge, but the applicants say it asks that in effect. So they are invariably conservative in answering the question on the blank:

"To what extent do you use intoxicants?"

Another TVA question which is arousing comment is this one, sent to persons whom applicants cite as references:

"In your opinion, is the applicant's wife an asset or a liability?"

Poverty Plea Fails

West Virginia, rich in national resources, is regarded here as a wealthy state. That's why Governor Kump got nowhere with his hard luck story to the Emergency Relief Administration.

Director Harry Hopkins told Kump the federal government had been carrying 95 per cent of the state's relief load and wasn't willing to carry more than 50 per cent. Kump is expected to call a special session of the legislature to provide the other 45 per cent.

moved from the worries and complexities of the New Deal.

YOUR CHILDREN

Avoid "Priming" a Child for School

"I'm glad Peggy is starting to school," said her mother. "She's getting beyond me."

"They soon straighten them out," agreed her friend. "I hope that you will like school, Peggy."

Peggy said, "Yes, I'm corrected and tried to do a better answer." But her thoughts were not on manners. She was thinking about that "straightening out." What could it mean? What did they do to you there?

Classroom Fear

She didn't want to be straightened out. She didn't want to go to school at all. She called school square. Everything square. Square books, square blackboards, square desks, square everything. Lines and rows and squares.

She had visited school with Lois and she never wanted to go to that place when she came home she felt that again.

"So you're going to school this fall Peggy?"

Everywhere she turned someone said that to her.

And her mother would answer for her. "Yes, and I'm so glad. She is running wild and needs to be doing something. You know they make them walk the chalk line and the children turn into different people."

Lois added her bit. "When you go to school you can't do that. If you don't behave you'll catch it. You mustn't whisper. If you're dumb they'll put you in a back seat."

Already she was planning ways to defeat this great machine that was to catch and crush her.

Another Attitude

Up in the mountains a fine woman with clear eyes, not yet restored, was saying, "I must be getting home soon.
I won't be long now. I dread this time of year. I always call it the frightening period. About half the children who start in have been talked to all summer until they are like nervous little rabbits. Either that or they are determined not to submit."

"I wish people wouldn't worry these babies before hand. Just let them take it for granted and let them walk in without a lot of priming. It takes me two weeks to get them and assure them that they won't be eaten or beaten."

"Sometimes it's the other way and they are promised a Roman holiday just to get them there. That's almost as bad. The best way is to talk very little at all and act as though school were as natural as breakfast or the sun."

Feet First!

The shoes you wear affect your health, posture, appearance and dis-mind when you set out to buy new fall shoes.

Be sure, first of all, that your feet are in good condition before you visit the shoe store. You can't expect your new shoes to be comfortable if you have corns and callouses. If you have corns, it is best to see a reliable foot doctor.

Callouses can be treated at home if you pay particular attention to a scientific routine. Never cut them.
Soak your feet nightly and then rub the calloused places with a piece of pumice. Don't try to remove all the callous the first night. It takes time and patience.

If you cannot get a doctor to have your corns treated, perhaps corn pasters may afford relief. These protect the corn from the shoe. Removing the source of irritation will sometimes cure the corn.

Wear fresh stockings every day. Always take special pains to dry your feet thoroughly. Especially between the toes. If you notice little callouses or pieces of loose skin between your toes, begin at once to use an antiseptic powder between them after each bath.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY
EVE RADER, twenty, assistant to MARLE BARRETT, advertising manager of HARRY's department store, married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City.
Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

ARLENE SMITH, stenographer in the advertising office, fancies herself in love with GEORGE BLISS, but she is snubbed by BLISS. ARLENE is trouble-making copy writer.

Eve receives a letter from P. R. W. T. S. A. from a scholarship who is playing the stock market. Eve decides to do the same thing. Without Dick's knowledge, she borrows money from her mother and with it buys stock.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX

THOUGH she would not have admitted it to anyone there were times when Eve Rader worried about her marriage. Was her work at the office making too many demands on her time and interest, she asked herself. Dick did not complain but nevertheless she sensed that something was wrong.

Eve was dissatisfied but did not know what she could do about it.
The night of Freda Carter's party Eve and Arlene went to dinner together and then took a cab to North Hills where Freda lived.

Arlene's eyes brightened when she saw the tiny studio piano. It was an upright model and looked almost like a toy. Its tone was splendid and as soon as her wraps were removed Arlene sat down and ran her fingers over the keys.

"Oh, I didn't know you played!" Freda exclaimed. "Now my party will surely be a success!"

Later Arlene played while the others sang. Her voice was a rich contralto, so sweet that presently when she sounded the first notes of "Love, Come Back to Me," the other singers gradually dropped out to listen to Arlene. Eve hoped her friend had not chosen the song because George Bliss was there. He had come with Mona Allen.

Someone suggested bridge but it was postponed until later. The apartment house rules forbade music after 11 o'clock and the crowd apparently wanted music as long as possible.

WHEN they sang "Will You Remember" from "Maytime," Sam Holeridge, who was crippled and had been sitting quietly in a corner of the room leaped up and joined in the singing, letting his voice ring out lustily.

"Play it again!" he pleaded when the song was ended.

But before the last notes of the chorus had been reached a second time Sam turned away abruptly.
Freda Carter saw that his eyes were misted.

"What's the matter, Sam?" she asked kindly.

"It's that song—and what it brings back to me," he told her huskily. "I was in love with a beautiful girl once but it all turned out wrong. After that I thought I had to drink to bolster up my courage. I've been doing it ever since. Even tonight! I'm always drinking to forget myself and I'm a damned fool. Don't think I don't love her!"

ARLENE came out to help soon and immediately Sam Holeridge joined them. "Freda," he warned, "won't you send this girl back to the piano? She doesn't belong in the kitchen."

When she and Eve were alone again Freda said with a laugh, "Well, Arlene seems to have him handcuffed and bound."

"Who is he?" Eve asked.

"Don't you know Sam? You should. He's a first rate advertising man. Working at Mason's now.
Too bad he drinks so much—he has lots of ability."

Later when Eve looked into the living room she saw that one table of bridge had been organized but Arlene and Sam Holeridge were still at the piano. Mona Allen was holding Reece's hand, telling his fortune, and George Bliss stood alone.

Something impish tempted Eve.
"Oh, Mr. Bliss!" she called. "Miss Carter would like a man with a good stroke to slice this ham."

Bliss seemed glad to help in the kitchenette. He opened a bottle of olives, sliced the ham and prepared excellent coffee.

"No kitchenette is complete without a handy man," sighed Freda with a twinkle in her eyes.
"If you happen to find one who's unattached and not too antique, Eve, be sure to pull an oar for my side."

A moment later she called gaily, "Fall in line for supper! I'm sending you all home early because I've got to be on the job myself tomorrow."

strongly of Stalling's screen play of Cortez, playing the boy wizard of Wald Street, gives an unprecedented performance. Cold and ruthless in his business dealings in the Street, he exhibits a distinct parlor manner when winning the heart of Elizabeth Young, a refreshing newcomer to the screen.

He finds plenty of business and romantic opposition in Richard Bennett, who, in the role of a ninety-seven-year-old financial baron, fires a bombshell right in the middle of his plans.

What will come after repeal?" asks an editorial writer. Nobody knows, but many folks doubtless hope that it will be a lot better than the stuff they British bridge players lost that international game to Americans. London bridge, it is feared, is falling down.

Nothing is certain but death, taxes and the outcome of the plot of the average movie mystery story.

First Train Reaches Hope

Fifty Years Ago Today

This is a memorable day in the history of Hope. It is the fiftieth anniversary of the day when the first railroad train reached this city over the Carlo and Fulton railroad, afterward the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern. Now an integral part of the great Missouri Pacific system.

It might well be called the city's fiftieth birthday anniversary, since it was with the coming of the railroad, the laying of the track to this point being completed on August 24, 1873, that the town came into being. These auspicious events are well within the recollection of some of our old and respected citizens, who have seen the present city of Hope grow and develop from the beginning.

Scanning New Books

By BRUCE CATTON

We are often told that America needs a system of parliamentary government based on the English model.
D. W. Brogan of the London School of Economics, whose "Government of the People" is an amazingly thoughtful study of American politics, is refreshingly different.

Unparliamentary government, he asserts, would not suit America at all.
Instead, he suggests that we strengthen the kind of government we have now. Enlarge the powers of the president, giving him the right to appeal to a referendum of the people when Congress rejects his program, and make Congress more a national body by dropping the requirement that a congressman must live in the state he represents—with these and minor administrative changes, says Mr. Brogan, we would have just what we need.

Harold Laski calls this book "the most illuminating treatise on American government since the late Lord Bryce's famous volumes," and he may well be right. Certainly it is a thorough and comprehensive discussion of the subject; and it has the added merit of being interestingly written.

Our government's chief fault, says Mr. Brogan, is that it is unwieldy.
It cannot act rapidly, it cannot adjust itself to changing conditions, it cannot accurately reflect shifts in public opinion. It seems to me that the events of the last few months pretty thoroughly up to this criticism. He adds that the Democratic party can hardly survive, unless and he thinks it almost impossible) it emerges as representative of the economic interests of the farmer and the laborer, and also restores a measure of national prosperity. . . . Well?

Published by Harpers, this book sells for $4.

EVE knew she had a hard day before her and that Freda had also. She was anxious to be home and it became increasingly embarrassing to sit waiting for Dick. At last she decided to call a taxi.

"That will be fine," said Reece.
"We can all three make knots that way."

Eve was annoyed but with Arlene as a third she did not fear Reece.
She asked to be taken home first and this was logical as her home was nearest. However, she did not hear Reece give the instructions to the driver and they arrived at Arlene's home first. Eve had paid no attention to the direction in which they traveled. Now she was too surprised to use her wits and with a goodnight to Arlene she resigned herself to the situation. Alone again in the taxi with Reece whom she detested, Eve was provokingly silent.

"You don't like me very well, do you, Eve?" he asked.

"Mrs. Rader, if you please," she corrected him.

Reece removed his hat and ran his fingers through his black, curly hair. He was good looking, Eve thought, in rather a movie hero manner. He laughed, a low, throaty laugh. "Can't make me mad," he assured her.

To Eve's intense relief, however, he did not become cheaply familiar.
His attempts at conversation met with silence from her and she sprang from the cab as soon as it stopped before her home. Reece followed her. Whether or not this was for her protection she did not know, but he saw her safely inside the hall. Dick opened the door and nodded curly to Reece who turned and went his way.

"I waited and waited for you!" Eve said accusingly.

"I'm sorry I was late," Dick said, "but I couldn't help it. When I got to Freda's you had just gone.
But I've been waiting a long while since I got home."

There was no use putting up a defense, Eve thought. She was tired and an argument would lead nowhere. Let Dick think what he might about her coming home with Theron Reece!

HOOKS and SLIDES
by BILL BRAUCHER

Get Him, Gibson

If the Pirates want to win that National League gonfalon pretty quick, all they have to do is call big Ralph Birkhofer back from the sticks.

Ralph, of the Cincinnati Birkhofers, came up to the Pirates' camp with a lot of flowery recommendations in one hand, a meat cleaver in the other, fire in his eye—and fast ball. And from the time he stepped into camp, Manager George Gibson knew he had a left-hander who'd come in handy some day.

Opportunity Knocks
That day has apparently arrived. The Pirates are in a last-ditch fight with the Giants for the old loop honors—and there's big Ralph, resembling a bulky German butcher boy, up there at Toronto heaving them over with all the poise and skill of a Lefty Grove. Some say he's even better than old Mose when that fireball artist was ready to give up his minor league birth for major league dishing.

Some 15 victories as against half as many defeats is the big boy's record right now. And it's hard to realize how Gibson, with a pitching corps that has flopped repeatedly all year, can sit back in the heat of the fight and see such good material go to waste.

In the Western League last year Ralph turned in 15 wins as against 10 defeats. Five of those wins, however, were in a league always known as the "Hitler's Paradise." Weighing close to 200 pounds, and standing 5 feet 11 inches up in the air, this quiet, modest chunk of beef is a pitcher ready to win a pennant for the Pirates and make a name for himself.

The Stage Is Set

The present Birkhofer-Pirate situation calls to mind the same status that once existed between the Cleveland Indians and Duster Mails in 1920. Tris Speaker, pressed for pitchers who could go the route in that stretch drive, called on Walter, then not in the Coast League flinging them from the portside. All Mails did was to pitch the Indians to a pennant and the world series.

It would pay Gibson to take a chance, too.
